Kingsmills Hotel focuses on relaxation, revitalisation and calm

Due to the small number of bedrooms the AG150 controller 'interlock function' offered the best solution

The team behind The Kingsclub and Spa development carried out extensive research to find out what visitors really need and want from a Spa hotel.

Designed to provide a chic and contemporary hotel choice for discerning travellers to Inverness, this latest addition to Highland hotels focuses on relaxation, revitalisation and calm.

Due to the small number of bedrooms the AG150 controller 'interlock function' offered the best solution to this prestigious venue.

This allows the air conditioning to switch on at a predetermined setpoint and operating mode while the room key card is in and revert automatically to night set back when the key card is taken out.

This solution allows the hotel to offer its guests exceptional comfort while ensuring the owners maintain low running cost and minimise energy use.
